SPECIAL ATTRACTION

At The GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE. TWO NIGHTS ONLY

Tuesday &amp; Wednesday March 10th-11th,

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in "Woman! Woman!"

The Story of a Woman's Temptation.

Reveals why woman loves and sins. Imagine a woman whose love for her husband is so great that she gives herself to another man!
WOMAN, WOMAN, is a powerful photoplay that analyzes woman's heart and soul. Evelyn Nesbit stars in the part of Alice Lindsay, a young girl who has her choice between marriage and free love. It tells the story of a young girl who becomes dissatisfied with her monotonous existence in a small country town. She comes to New York and feels the lure of the Great White Way. Free love beckons to her, but she resists. The moral discipline she has received at home prevents her falling.

Then she marries. Again she is tempted. Her husband grows ill, she is penniless, and he is dying from neglect. It is then that she forgets her principles and yields to temptation. She makes the supreme sacrifice to save her husband's life. Her husband sees in her merely a woman who has fallen from the path of virtue and casts her out, after a child has been born. Alice returns to her old home, but when Samson obtains a divorce her narrow minded father and mother can not bear up under the disgrace, and drive the girl away. Then Alice seeks refuge with Gwenne Stevens.

While she leads this life of misery, Mackay is searching for her. The love for his little child has awakened in him a great love for the woman he has injured. At last he discovers her in her hiding place and begs her to marry him. He realizes that she has aimed because her husband was dying and few dollars might save his life. He loves her for it, and marries her, thus defending her act in the face of the unsympathetic world.

WHITE DALLAS IN PANIC OF EXCITEMENT.

Dr. A. E. Boaz of Ft. Worth shoots and mortally wounds H. E. Mc-Dowell, Proprietor of Oriental Barbershop.

Thursday evening near 5 o'clock,
Dr. A. E. Boaz of Ft. Worth, shoots to death H. E. McDowell, part owner of the Oriental Barbershop in basement of the Oriental hotel.

The shooting is alleged to have taken place on the Jackson street side of the hotel and McDowell was struck as he fled for his life up the alley running from Commerce to Jackson streets, on East side of the hotel and falling mortally wounded as he reaches Commerce street.

He was rushed by his friends to the sanitarium where he died before reaching the operating table. Where he fell a large puddle of blood remained which attracted large crowds for hours.

The shooting occurred during the evening rush hours when men and women were assembled on corners in downtown district on Atford and Commerce, awaiting conveyances for home when the sound of a revolver rang out every one having heard it and saw it were thrown into a panic of excitement as hundreds were in a radius of thirty yards from where McDowell fell.

Hundreds of white men, newspaper men, detectives, police captains and plain clothes men were on the scene together with the Dallas Express reporter seeking the murder in details.
No information was secured by any of the gentlemen referred to a very small bit was secured by an Express reporter at that time.

Dr. Boaz, it is alleged came over from Ft. Worth, and was seen in the barbershop of his victim, Thursday morning with a bandage over the right side of his face, sat closely where he could get a good observation at the man sought by him, having in one instant asked a porter was that the shop McDowell was interested in, the reply was yes sir.

The reporter at that time thought nothing of it. Dr. Boaz waited for the moment when he could meet his man and when it arrived he was there. It is said McDowell asked to reason the difference, but the reply was "there's no time for reasoning."
Then the bloody tragedy commenced.
H. E. McDowell was a splendid character, having many friends in
